F HOUSE

F HOUSE
PITSOU KEDEM ARCHITECTS

Inspired by the vastness and sublime architecture and state buildings, the F House becomes a haven and portal for residents to move between the everyday and majestic. The layout of the space is linear and fluid, allowing every space to move seamlessly into the other to take residents to the heart of the house which is a place privilege few get to see. The welcoming and domestic nature of the house cannot be denied and lends the house a warmth and beauty that is ideal for modern-day living.

Both the living spaces and living room are one solid unit, separate only by a door and this fragile boundary provides a barrier to the outside world that can be easily moved through. Together these elements work to immerse the house and its inhabitants in the natural environment outside. Inhabitants are encouraged to explore the natural in their space through glass dividers and young trees that surround the property. The house creates a surreal experience that invites people to break boundaries and experience the powerful beauty of nature.
